+++++++

I have read and understand the rules of the Third Annual Labyrinth Society Writing Contest. The attached manuscript has never been published and is not scheduled for publication at this time. I understand that if my entry is the grand prize winner or one of the winners in the appropriate category, The Labyrinth Society has the right to publish my short story, essay or poem in full on the website, and/or in the organization's print or online newsletter. Any additional publication rights will be negotiated should such an opportunity arise.
